

Racine County Stakeholder Involvement Plan Long Term Care Redesign

The need for stakeholder input is important as Racine County transitions consumers to a Care Management Organization. Stakeholders include current providers, other community agencies that provide services, advocacy agencies, consumers and families, special education/transition staff, local legislators and elected officials.

Several plans are suggested, any or all of which could be implemented:

- Have a general meeting with all community agencies to outline the state's vision for long term care reform. (August 3, sponsored by the Racine Caregiver's Alliance)
- Have meetings with targeted providers that would be most affected by the change to a CMO and/or HSD staff believes would be a positive addition to the ADRC. (late June through July)
- Staff would be available to meet with consumers and families as meetings are set up by advocacy and provider agencies (ongoing)
- As the detailed development of the ADRC begins, pull together an advisory group made up of interested members of the current Long Term Support Advisory Committee, the Commission on Aging, and perhaps a few key community members. (August-September?)
- Staff will meet with legislators and local elected officials on an ongoing basis to update them on progress and get their input as to the direction of the development of the ADRC and CMO transition. (already begun and ongoing)
